With respect to the volume, because of the availability and the access of sharing on an Internet site, a warez site or on a peer-to-peer level, it is astronomical as far as how much can get out there and how quickly it can be done. There is one small distinction, though. With respect to the hard goods, the one difference is you actually exchange cash. So there is somebody who is out there who is taking monies in when it comes to hard goods. It is much more difficult for us to quantify what that loss would be in sort of the peer-to-peer or the Internet situation. Chairman S. Ms. Yang, we have the concurring opinions PECTER which are present in the Grokster case. Would it be important for Congress to pick up at least the issues raised in those two concurring opinions and consider them and to legislate in that area so the district courts know what the law is and wont go back and forth like a tennis ball between the concurring opinions Ms. Y. First, Senator, I would like to make the distinction ANG that Grokster relates solely to civil liabilities and civil issues, and I am here to sort of address the criminal aspects. But anytime you have an opinion where there are, I guess, questions left for liti-gants and parties to have to muddle through, it is always helpful to have legislation in that regard, and especially in this particular area...
